

SUMMARIUM:

Man is an epitome of the Universe; he is, in fact, a Universe in miniature, built upon the exact plan and proportions of the large one. He is a Microcosm of the Macrocosm (The Higher Mind.) His component parts interact with one another, even as do all things in Nature; they also interact with those larger bodies. Man, in his ignorance, imagines himself an isolated unit; but as his knowledge expands, he more and more recognizes the unity existing between himself and his Divine Source. And also between himself and the infinitude of other manifestations.

The intellectual and spiritual conditions of the world is, like all things manifest, subject to cyclic law; and there have always been recurring periods of comparative LIGHT and comparative DARKNESS. After the mental forces have expended themselves in any age, they begin to wane, and the Nation or Race declines into barbaric ignorance. When these periodic conditions of spiritual and intellectual decline set in, there is an effort made on the part of the most enlightened to preserve their knowledge for the few who will be able to appreciate it during the dark periods to follow, those who will pass it on in substance to future generations when the spiritual forces again rise in the world's ascendant. Thus originated the Hermitic Schools which are custodians of the secret Doctorines and recorded true history. The hierophants of these schools collect as many facts relating to spiritual things as possible, and form them into allegorical systems suitable for communication by word of mouth. In order that these histories and mysteries shall not become entirely lost, they are frequently given, in part or as a whole, to the populace. Such allegories become the religious doctrine of the multitude and, passing into writing, may constitute a Holy Book. Thus originated the Vedas, the Zend-Avesta, the Bible, and other sacred writings. But the key to these teachings always has remained secret in the custody of trained initiates.

The Moorish Nation of North America (North Africa) constitute the Vanguard of all nations. All racial and national growth is cyclic and inevitable over the events of National Life, political groups may gain a temporary measure of control, but none what so ever over the law governing its national progress and evolution. That is to say that no one person or group of persons on the physical-mental plane of action can permanently arrest the growth in defiance of cyclic law.

All present day racial groups were spawned, and mothered by the Moabite-Moorish Nation. The Moabite-Moorish Nation was the very first nation or mankind manifested into flesh; the Supreme expression of the twelve signs of the Zodiac, "Spoken" into flesh on the spiritual-mental plane of being, the very first intellectual animal who measured from head to foot (from Aries to Pisces) in the image and likeness of the Twelve Signs Of The Zodiac, The Higher Mind Himself. Yes, the Moabite-Moorish Nation is God and his Kingdom in the flesh, the chosen people of God. Owing to this fact the North Gate of the Universe is the cradle of humanity, the Temple Of The Sun and the Moon and the home of the oldest civilization on earth; the Moabite-Moorish Civilization and their Twelve Sign Zodiac Culture. Therefore the Moorish Nation of people whose aboriginal features of Kinky Hair, thick Lips and Dark Skin are the direct manifestation of "The All". That is to say that Kinky Hair, Thick Lips and Dark Skin are the features of the Great "I AM THAT I AM."
